Pawhuska the Mecca.

Oil men are flocking into Oklahoma and the attendance drawn to the big sale at Pawhuska, Wednesday, and from present appearances there is going to be a record-breaking crowd.

The sale this time really begins on Tuesday because on that day there will be sold a large amount of fee land, although this acreage certainly in all rights will be sold on Wednesday. It will be attended by a large number of buyers and is generally thought that the sale will be exceedingly low.

The acreage carries with it the face rights only, but in these days when the land is so scarce, the face rights are beginning to mean a great deal. The land is being sold in 40-acre tracts, and the buyers are beginning to realize the value of the land.

First, the oil man might much better get the surface rights than to get the face rights. This is because the face rights are being sold in 40-acre tracts, and the buyers are beginning to realize the value of the land.

As to the sale, Wednesday, most of the land is being sold in 40-acre tracts, and the buyers are beginning to realize the value of the land.

colors. That day, as we were coming along the road to join the regiment, we could see them coming along another road right angles to us. We got to the junction first and when they passed with "Old Glory" waving would have kissed the color bearer if we wasn't at attention. Third Army headquarters were in Bitburg at that time. All in all, she has been a tough old party, but the privilege of standing there at "present arms" while the band plays the anthem makes little shivers run up and down your back and re-affirms what you have never seriously doubted, that with all your beefs about the life you'd be mighty glad to do it all over again to keep the colors and the anthem what they are and what they stand for.

Well, old-timer, give my regards to all the family, and my gang, tell Abe and Jimmy that it's useless to try and reduce all available stocks before July 1. When I get a few minutes I'll write you a real letter.
